

OSNABRÜCK GLOBAL CLASSROOM

You are a business student and interested in international topics? What about studying online in an international and intercultural setting with lecturers and students from all over the world?

In that case the Osnabrück Global Classroom might be an option for you: Due to the challenges the Corona Pandemic imposes on student mobility, Osnabrück University of Applied Sciences has created alternative options for international students. You can register as a guest student at Hochschule Osnabrück and participate in one or more of the following online courses:

Module
Strategic Management in a turbulent world	Prof. Dr. Lynette Louw (Rhodes University, South Africa)
Enterprises and Globalization	Team-Teaching: Prof. Dr. Romyen Kosaikanont (Mae Fah Luang University, Thailand) Prof. Dr. Peter Mayer (Hochschule Osnabrück, Germany)
Quantitative Analyses for Marketing and Consumer Behaviour	Prof. Bernardinus Purwanto, PhD, (Universitas Gadjah Mada, Indonesia)
European Integration	Prof. Dr. Philippe Frouté (Université de Créteil, Paris, France)
The Global Political Economy	Prof. Masimo della Justina (Pontifícia Universidade Católica do Paraná, Brasil)
Legal Aspects of International Trade	Team-Teaching: Prof. Dr. Federico Feretti (University of Bologna, Italy) Prof. Dr. Holger Sutschet (Hochschule Osnabrück, Germany)
International Trends and Issues in Tourism, Hospitality and Events	Prof. Dr. Olga Junek (Victoria University Melbourne, Australia)
All courses are taught online in English language. The lecturers use the video conference tool zoom with one or two live video conference sessions per week. All courses have a workload of 5 ECTS and conclude with an exam. Participating guest students will be registered as guest students at Hochschule Osnabrück and receive a transcript of records upon completion of the class. All students will also receive access to our university platform OSCA for a smooth interaction with the lecturers and fellow students.
